DIAMONDS TO BURN.

Maysville People Give 'Em Away With Sticks of Chewing Gum.

Vincennes, Ind.

Will Plummer of this place found a valuable diamond ring belonging to C. D. Russell in Mr. Russell's store while attending the Elks Fair in Maysville last week. He picked it up from the floor and offered it to his brother-in-law, J. L. Nicholson, who travels for Mr. Russell. He refused to take it, saying "We give those things away with a cake of chewing gum here." Later Mr. Russell missed his ring and the fact was published in the Maysville papers. Mr. Plummer saw the notice in the paper and sent the ring to the owner. This little circumstance shows the true value of a diamond ring. Thank the Lord, Editors don't have to worry over the loss of diamonds.

Memorial Tributes!

MAYSVILLE'S CONDOLENCE

Touching Tributes to the Nation's Dead Chieftain.

SERVICES AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Yesterday will long be remembered in Maysville. With the somber emblems of mourning on every hand; with the doors of all the business houses closed; with the wheels of busy factories hushed; with throngs of citizens of all stations and creeds wending their way to the First Baptist Church to attend the Memorial Services in honor of the Nation's dead Chief Magistrate, the city presented a picture of universal sympathy and grief.

Partisanship—thank God—was relegated to the rear and Patriotism was triumphant; the Democrat vied with the Republican; the old Confederate walked beside the ex-Federal soldier; the Jew struck hands with the Gentile; the Catholic mourned with the Protestant—each remembering that while they entertained divergent political or religious beliefs, they were, first of all, Americans.

SERVICES AT THE CHURCH.

When the hour arrived for the services to begin the organ gave out the strains of a funeral march, which was followed by a fervent invocation for consolation to her who is enshrouded in gloom; for success for the National life and for Divine guidance upon all in authority over us.

All hearts were now attuned to the sacred and sorrowful aspects which enveloped them, and the hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," seemed to have new force and sweetness as it came from the choir.

Then the reading of Scripture by Rev. Howard T. Cree from John's Gospel was the prelude to "Thy Will Be Done," which was especially appropriate as a hymn to prepare the way for the second prayer, delivered by Dr. Molloy.

The first speaker was the Rev. W. F. Taylor, D.D., as follows:

(Of the twenty rulers slain in the last century, it is said, eleven were Presidents of the Republic. In seven years, it is claimed, two Presidents of the Republic, one Monarch, one Empress and one Prime Minister have been shot by Anarchists, and the life has been attempted of the hero of the British throne. In one generation three Presidents in our own country have fallen by the hand of assassin—the last an Anarchist—that is, a foe of government, of humanity and of God—contending that against Mr. McKinley as a man he had no feeling, but that he intended to kill him as the President of the United States.

Are we smitten with immortality? Is self-preservation the first law of nature and the government no right to exercise it? Is its province only to punish and not to prevent crime? Is it to foster and nourish schools of murder, and was it in its own blood the viper that is to be its death? Liberty is a great boon—liberty of speech and action. Republics can tolerate no inquisition which will suppress private opinion. The alien and sedition laws of 1798, with the revolt that followed, is proof positive of this. Criticism of men and measures, official with their policies and administration is necessary to the purity and perpetuity of the government. But perfectly consistent with this is a law which will make an assault upon the President, when made to obstruct the government, a felony and punishable with death, and also a law which will suppress in every form and in every place the malignant and infamous Anarchist propaganda. If the President's death shall secure enactment and enforcement of these laws he will not have died, as he has not lived, in vain.

How grandly did he live, as citizen, soldier, Congressman, Governor and President. What industry, integrity, fidelity, firmness, independence and courage. Such confidence did he inspire in his superiors and ability that at home and abroad he was trusted by those who were not in harmony with his measures. How signal was his success in events of world-wide influence. To the war that struck the shackles from millions of slaves to train the Peace Conference, the open door and restraint put upon the Powers in China, the purchase of the Danish West Indies and the saving of the Republic from the grasp of our own land, the capstone of which was put on when he proposed that the Government should share with the South the privilege of caring for her Confederate dead.

How kind his heart and how enriched by the spirit of the highest sense a gentleman. How gentle and tender! What masterly self-control and deference for others. This was one of the secrets of his power. How fully is it manifested in his regret that he should be the occasion of trouble to the Managers of the Exposition, in his solicitude that the assassin should not be hurt, and in the admonition to be careful about his wife and not let her know. These expressions at this crisis are the true index of his heart and life. And how signal in this crisis has been the private and public response. What a tribute to Mr. McKinley's heart when the stalwart Senator Hanna, of whom we have thought only as the political leader or the master of finance, knees at the dying bed of his political and personal friend and cries, "Mr. President, can't you see me, don't you know me?" William, William, speak to me!" Or when the Cincinnati Festival choruses of a thousand, rehearsing for a memorial service, sing the first line of "Lead Kindly Light," but break down and leave the hall "amid the enraptling gloom." Indeed what a tribute to his heart with the Nation, North and South, and, in fact, the civilized world standing in tears at his bier.

But it was not all nature. It was nature permeated and transfigured by grace. The lips that chanted "Nearer, My God, to Thee" were not learning a new song. To the "Way of God" and the "Will of God" he was no stranger. In "this way" his feet had walked for many years, and the "will of God" had been the unconditional motive of his action, the deep and all pervading spring of his life. It was not a submission to the inevitable. Not the defiance born of slighted mercies and insulted justice, but the cheerful acceptance of "a way" whose termination is heaven, and of "a will" which puts his into harmony with his eternal environment and with the eternal throne.

Hymn—"Thy Will Be Done."

Rev. Dr. John Harbison followed without ceremony, saying—
If our language seems extravagant today, it is not the fulsome adulation laid at the feet of Princes. It is born of pride in one who was the true product of our institutions.

But it was not all nature. It was nature permeated and transfigured by grace. The lips that chanted "Nearer, My God, to Thee" were not learning a new song. NEW PRESIDENT'S VIEWS.

Extracts From Recent Talks on Public Questions.

SENTIMENTS STRONGLY AMERICAN.

"Expansion."—At Oklahoma, July 4, 1900.
"As it is with the individual, so it is with the Nation. The Nation of Oklahoma founded this territory, this state that is to be, because you came here, not seeking a life of ease, but anxious to grapple with difficulties, and out of toil and labor and peril to achieve the splendid ultimate triumph. So it must be with the Nations of the earth. A Nation that is fit to play its part among the great peoples."

At St. Joseph, Mo., on July 5, 1900.
"Peace cannot be had until the civilized Nations of the world have expanded in some shape or other over barbarous Nations."

At Emporia, Kan., July 7, 1900.
"Why are you here today? Because you expanded over Kansas. You sent your sons to the Philippines to plant their blood water the soil of those islands. The flag is there and it won't come down."

"The Nation and the Decalogue."—At Oklahoma, July 5, 1900.

"No Nation, no matter how glorious its history, can exist unless it practices—practices, mind you, not merely preach—civic honesty, civic decency, civic righteousness. No Nation can permanently prosper unless the force of the golden rule is its guide in public as in private life."

"Idle Chatter of Militarism."—At St. Paul, Minn., July 7, 1900.
"Of all idle chatter, the talk of danger of militarism is the deadliest. It is a chatter full of talk of our liberties being menaced by the existence of a force capable of keeping order on our outlying possessions now as it would have been to talk of their being menaced in the time by the soldiers who followed Custer and his fellows against the Comanches, Apaches and Sioux. Have your liberties been menaced by the return of the Minutemen and Dakota troops, who won such honor for themselves in the Philippines?"

"Enforce the Monroe Doctrine."—At the Dedication of the Pan-American Exposition, Buffalo, N. Y., May 29.

"I believe with all my heart in the Monroe Doctrine. This Doctrine is not to be invoked for the aggrandizement of any one of us on this continent at the expense of anyone else on this continent. It should be regarded simply as a great international Pan-American policy, vital to the interests of all of us."

"The United States has, and ought to have, and must ever have, only the desire to see her sister Republics of the Western Hemisphere continue to flourish, and the determination that no World Power shall acquire territory here on this Western continent."

"Joy and Pride in the Union."—Speech at Burlington, Vt., September 1, 1901.

"We can retain an ever-growing sense of the all importance, not merely to our people, but to mankind, of the Union victory, while giving the freest and heartiest recognition to the sincerity and self-devotion of those Americans, our fellow-countrymen, who then fought against the stars in their courages. Now there is none left, North or South, who does not take joy in the pride in the Union; and when three years ago we once more had to face a foreign enemy, the heart of every true American thrilled with pride to see our men who had fought in the Confederate uniform once more appear under Uncle Sam's colors, side by side with their former foes, and leading to victory and the famous old flag the sons of those who had worn the blue and of those who had worn the gray."

From Infancy To Age

Laxakola for Babies.—It is the best and most effective laxative for children. BEST because it is safe and made entirely of home ingredients. BEST because it is non-irritating and never causes pain or irritation. BEST because it is sure and never fails. BEST because it is a pleasant thing to give to the little babies violent colic, that rack and rend their little bodies. DON'T DO IT. It is a pleasant thing to give to the little babies violent colic, that rack and rend their little bodies. DON'T DO IT. It is a pleasant thing to give to the little babies violent colic, that rack and rend their little bodies. DON'T DO IT.

Laxakola for Young Girls. On the threshold of womanhood, has been found invaluable. When they become pale and languid, the eyes dull, the head, feet and hands cold, appetite gone or abnormal, and their systems generally run down, they need building up, and laxative needs cleansing. Give them Laxakola. Its gentle bowel action to cleanse and its tonic properties to build up their systems, will show immediate and most beneficial results, simple, safe and pleasant.

Laxakola for Mothers. It is particularly valuable and useful to women, especially mothers, as it is a gentle and safe remedy to use during all conditions of health. Their peculiar and delicate constitutions require a mild and efficient laxative and tonic, while nursing mothers, worn out with the care of infants and whose systems are therefore are particularly susceptible to disease. Laxakola is particularly adapted.

Laxakola for Old Folks.—In the Autumn and Winter of Life, when the various organs through long years of action have become more or less sluggish, it becomes necessary to stimulate them by some ready but adapted to their purpose. Laxakola is such a has been proved beyond all question. Its gentle warming, soothing action on the bowels, liver and kidneys stimulates them to increased activity, cleanses the blood, quiets the circulation, and puts the whole system in a condition of health and ease. It is a most valuable and safe remedy for the aged.

Laxakola for the Sick.—In the Autumn and Winter of Life, when the various organs through long years of action have become more or less sluggish, it becomes necessary to stimulate them by some ready but adapted to their purpose. all want to and bring her back into port intact and with so little strain that this far we can scarce say she is afloat.

"Standing by the dead body of WILLIAM McKINLEY, the man—the simple, generous, gentle man—our Chief, yet our fellow-citizen—we can only mourn; mourn for our country and ourselves that he is gone; mourn for the evil that has come upon us by his cruel and unnatural murder; mourning above all for that stricken one, that bosom friend, that wilted flower, equally struck down by the assassin's bullet, never to hope again until the angels shall open their wings and take her where they have taken him. It is too dreadful to contemplate. May it make us better men and women, now and forever, amen!"

HAND IN HAND.

Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Indigestion, the Bane of the Present Day.—Mope. Little People Know the Remedy.

There is a condition that a great many people get into these days; not sick and able; able to be around, but never feeling well; weak and the least exertion tuckers them out. As months go on they become weaker until resistance to disease is practically overcome. It was directly for this class that Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills were formulated. They provide the lacking element that is wanted to remove the troubled nerve force.

Mr. R. H. Wallace of No. 38 East Front street, Mayville, Ky., says: "I have been for a long time troubled with severe nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and indigestion. Having read in the papers of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills I thought I would try them. I got a box at Chenoweth's Drugstore and how I can say my nerves are needed. I sleep well and am not bothered with those distressing and my digestion is good. I can recommend this medicine very highly."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are sold at 50 cents a box at dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. See that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., are on every package.

CEURCHES DRAPED.

Memorial Services Were Held by All Denominations in Louisville Thursday.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 20.—All the churches in Louisville Thursday held services in memory of President McKinley. Most of the edifices were draped in black. The congregations which attended were surprising in point of numbers, thousands of people joining in the tribute to the beloved chief executive. Eloquent addresses were made, and in each church the president's favorite hymns, "Lead, Kindly Light," and "Nearer, My God, to Thee," were sung. Business was suspended and the schools were closed. Public buildings were locked tight all day. The observation was general throughout Kentucky. The governor's proclamation made the day a legal holiday, and no more business than was necessary was transacted. Every city, town and hamlet throughout the state joined in the nation's day of mourning.

AT FRANKFORT.

Gov. Beckham Delivered a Eulogy at the Memorial Services Held in the Opera House.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 20.—At the McKinley memorial services Thursday the opera house was packed with 1,000 people, and hundreds could not get in. All the ministers and church choirs took part, and short addresses eulogistic of the dead president were made by Gov. Beckham, Judge Durrell and Rev. J. R. Savage, of the Methodist church. All stores were closed and the city was a general air of mourning.

Negroes Arrested.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 20.—Because they proceeded to have the colored Baptist church built after a license was refused Martin Lloyd, T. L. Brown and Holbert Stewart, Negro members of the colored Baptist church of this city, were arrested Thursday afternoon on the charge of unlawfully erecting a building. The objection to the church being built there is that it is directly opposite the governor's mansion. The case will be heard in the city court Friday.

Enslaved by W. C. P. Breckinridge.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 20.—Two vast audiences paid respect to the memory of McKinley here Thursday. Ex-Congressman W. C. P. Breckinridge, a colleague of the late president on the ways and means committee in congress, made the principal address at the opera house.

Room in Oil.

Albany, Ky., Sept. 20.—There is no let-up in the oil boom in this county. A new company has been organized here, and will be called the Keokuk Oil & Gas Co. The capital stock is $200,000. Home parties compose the new company.

School Children Were Crepe.

Stanford, Ky., Sept. 20.—Services were held Thursday afternoon in the First Christian church. All ministers of the city participated. Public school children marched to church in a body, each child and teacher wearing a crepe.

Will Toot at Lexington.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 20.—The Abbot will trot against Bormina for a purse of $50,000, of which each owner pays $10,000, and the association gives $30,000 of the gate receipts, with a guarantee of $10,000. The other half of the gate receipts will go to charity.

First Degree Murder.

Landon, Ky., Sept. 20.—Tom Brown and his sister, Mrs. Lizzie Stringer, were held on the charge of murder in the first degree, without bail, for the alleged killing of Maggie Neenan.

Union Memorial Services.

Lelandon, Ky., Sept. 20.—Union memorial services were held at the Baptist church Thursday in memory of McKinley. "Lead, Kindly Light," and "Nearer, My God, to Thee," were sung.

Sentenced for Life.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 20.—John Coff, Jr., who shot and killed Bradford Reed, as L. E. Foreman, last February, in this city, was sentenced to serve a life term in the penitentiary Thursday.

Severely a Dry Eye.

Lancaster, Ky., Sept. 20.—Five hundred citizens of Lancaster attended the McKinley memorial services at the court house Thursday evening. There was scarcely a dry eye in the audience.

Everybody Took Part.

Russellville, Ky., Sept. 20.—McKinley memorial services were held at the Methodist church Thursday. Confederate soldiers, democrats, republicans and people of all shades of political belief took part.

Light Frosts Reported.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 20.—Light frosts were reported Thursday from Hopkinsville, Owensville, Henderson, Paducah, Russellville, Carlisle and the vicinity of Louisville.

Drowned Before Father's Eyes.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 20.—Martin Hanson, the 11-year-old son of William Hanson, a local carrier, was drowned before his father's eyes last Thursday afternoon.

TELL-TALE LETTER.

Document Found On a Prisoner That Promises to Furnish a Clue to a Conspiracy.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 20.—On the person of a wounded prisoner, an anarchist, the police have found a letter mailed from Los Angeles two weeks before the shooting of President McKinley that promises to furnish a clue to a conspiracy.

The letter contained two printed circulars, the first of which was in letters and figures. They have been but partially translated. Some expressions already deciphered are: "Beast at Buffalo exposition," "Whatever happened is to be repeated," "Lincoln's assassin," "Real anarchist known only to Lewis, the lights," "Anarchist dreams of delay," "So in the matter of the president life," "People perish for lack of wisdom," "Prevention better than cure," "Socialism skulking out of anarchy into respectability repudiates the tactics of the bullet," "Emma," "Twenty-five years struggling for socialism."

The circulars are headed "The rule eye—X." Words are inconspicuous in the first, and in the second, at points, so as to appear as Biblical references.

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

Daniel J. Brown Shot His Wife. Father-in-law, James C. Fitzgerald, at Carlisle, Ill.

Carlisle, Ill., Sept. 20.—Daniel J. Brown shot his wife, his father-in-law, James C. Fitzgerald, of Jerseyville, Ill., and then himself at his former home in this city at 1 o'clock Thursday.

Brown had been quarreling with his wife Thursday over the ownership of certain property at her home, where Fitzgerald, who is a well-known Thompson shot his wife, the bullet striking a corset stay. She was not hurt. He then fired at his father-in-law, who carried the pistol on himself, the ball entering above the heart. Brown and Fitzgerald are still alive, and the wife is doing all that is possible to relieve the sufferings of her wounded husband and father, but neither of the men will live.

ADmits HIS GuILT.

Coolidge Thursday Said He Killed the President—That He Is an Anarchist.

Buffalo, Sept. 20.—The Courier Friday morning prints the following: "Coolidge Thursday said he killed the President—That He Is an Anarchist."

Dr. Rixey's Promotion.

St. May He Be Appointed Surgeon General of the Army in December.

Washington, Sept. 20.—The naval ship, the USS Oregon, from San Francisco will not return to the United States until November 14, 1902. Dr. Rixey stands No. 28 on the list of naval surgeons. MOURNED

An Immense Concourse of People Paid Their Last Tribute to the Late President at Canton.

Funeral Services at the Church and in West Lawn Cemetery Were Simple and Impressive.

The Funeral Procession to the Cemetery Was About One and One-Half Miles in Length.

Along the Route of the March Was An Almost Unbroken Line of Soldiers and of All Intersecting Streets Millman Was Packed.

Canton, O., Sept. 20.—With majestic solemnity, surrounded by his countrymen and his countrywomen, the president of the United States, Supreme Court, retired from the scene in Congress, the heads of the military and naval establishments, the governors of states and a great concourse of people who had known and loved him, all that is mortal of the illustrious man, who died a martyr's death, was committed to the ground. It was a spectacle of mournful grandeur.

From every city and hamlet in Ohio, from the remote corners of the south, and from the east and west, the human tide flowed into the city. The people were within its gates, here to pay their last tribute to the great man.

The final scenes at the First Methodist church, where the funeral service was held, and at the beautiful West Lawn cemetery, where the body was entombed, were the most impressive of the day.

The services at the church consisted of a brief ceremony, the reading of the words of the three great religions and the singing of a hymn. The body was then taken to the cemetery and placed in the vault.

A Patriotic Feature.

One of the most pathetic features of the day was the absence of Mrs. McKinley from the funeral services at the church and the cemetery when the body of her husband was laid to rest. The shock of the shooting, then of death, and the grief of the loss of her husband, had borne up bravely. But there was a limit to her endurance. When Thursday came it found her too weak to pass through the ordeal of the funeral ceremonies. Through the open door of her home she looked out at the minister as the body was borne out of the house.

The line of the funeral march from the church to the cemetery was about one and one-half miles in length. The gates of the cemetery to the doors of the church were the most impressive of the day. The street almost unbroken line of soldiers and of all intersecting streets Millman was packed.

A TRIBUTE TO LOVE.

No greater reverence has ever been shown to any man, living or dead, than was shown to the late President McKinley. The funeral procession was the most impressive of the day.

church, slowly but in a voice that could be heard distinctly by all who were grouped about the vault.

THE KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.

A Quartette Sang "Farewell, My Brother," "Rock of Ages," "The Wayside Cross," "The Wayside Cross," Etc.

As the head of the division continued the Knights Templar, who had been delayed in reaching the place for the previous ceremony, were now in the vault to the south of the vault and sang "Farewell, My Brother," "Rock of Ages," "The Wayside Cross," "The Wayside Cross," Etc.
